OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY

No flag but the Old Flag—the Red, White and Blue,
With the stars of a Union unbroken and true!
Arise and defend it! ye sons of the brave,
Whose blood bought the banner your valor must save.

TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 22, 1862.

The Democratic Address.

The last platform of the so-called "Democratic" party of Oregon contained a plank advocating the prosecution of the war against the rebellion. We said at the time that the platform was a cheat and a sham gotten up for the purpose of deceiving Union Democrats, and that it did not express the views of the leaders of that party. Since the election, that party has received the "Democratic Address" with open arms, accepted it as the expression of their political faith, and acknowledged its signers as the leaders of their party and the exponents of its views.

A brief glance at the crowd of these leaders, among whom is GEORGE K. SHIEL, of Oregon, should convince the most skeptical, that the prosecution of the war is the last enterprise under heaven to which they would lend their aid.

This Democratic Secret Congressional Caucus Address is signed by twelve Democratic Congressmen, viz: W. A. Richardson, A. L. Knapp, John Law, of Illinois; D. W. Voorhees, of Indiana; W. Allen, Warren P. Noble, Geo. H. Pendleton, Jas. R. Moris, C. L. Vallandigham, of Ohio; Phillip Johnson, S. E. Ancona, of Pennsylvania; and last and least, George K. Shiel, of Oregon.

It will be remembered that the President called an extra session of Congress in July last, to provide the ways and means to suppress a rebellion which threatened by extended, armed organization to overthrow the Government. Previous to the meeting of Congress, the President had adopted such measures as were demanded by the emergency, and deemed necessary to protect the National Capital, preserve the archives of Government and check the rebel assault.

On the meeting of Congress, measures providing the ways and means to suppress the rebel outbreak and punish the traitors were introduced, all of which were opposed and voted against by most of the Democrats who signed the Address referred to, as will be seen by the record, which we give from the Congressional Globe:

On the House bill to Provide for a National Loan to pay Volunteers and meet the expenses of putting down the rebellion, Messrs. Allen, Ancona, Johnson, Law, Morris, Noble, Pendleton, Richardson, SHIEL, and Vallandigham, ten of the twelve who signed the Democratic address, voted against it.

On the bill to provide for an Increased Revenue to pay interest on the Public Debt and to meet the Expenses of the War to Restore the Union, Messrs. Allen, Ancona, Johnson, Law, Morris, Noble, Pendleton, SHIEL, Vallandigham, and Vorhees, ten of the twelve who signed the Democratic Address, VOTED AGAINST IT, while Richardson and Knapp dodged a vote on it.

On the bill to ratify and legalize the acts of the President in calling out the Militia, and in reference to the army and navy, previous to the meeting of Congress in July, to suppress the rebellion, Messrs. Allen, Ancona, Johnson, Noble, Pendleton, SHIEL, Vallandigham, Voorhees, nine of the twelve who signed the Democratic address, VOTED AGAINST IT, while Richardson, Knapp, and Morris dodged the vote.

On the bill "to confiscate property used by the rebels for insurrectionary purposes," Messrs. Law, Voorhees, Allen, Noble, Pendleton, Morris, Vallandigham, Johnson, Ancona, SHIEL, ten of the twelve who signed the Democratic address, VOTED AGAINST IT. Richardson and Knapp dodged a vote on the bill.

On Mr. Crittenden's resolution declaring "that this war is not waged for conquest, nor "for interfering with the established institu"tions of any State, but to defend and main"tain the supremacy of the constitution and "the rights of the several States unimpaired, "and that as soon as these objects are accom"plished the war ought to cease," Messrs. Ancona, Knapp, Johnson, Morris, Richardson, SHIEL, Vallandigham and Voorhees, nine of the twelve who signed the Democratic address dodged a vote, when the resolution was adopted by 121 to 2.

On the bill to define and punish conspiracies against the Government, adopted by 123 to 7, Messrs. Knapp, SHIEL, Vallandigham and Voorhees dodged a vote, although in their seats.

Vallandigham introduced resolutions censuring the President for calling out volunteers for the suppression of the rebellion; for blockading the Southern ports; for arresting and imprisoning open and avowed traitors; for expending money to thwart the rebels and their Northern sympathizers; for the seizure of telegraph dispatches, and for almost every thing the President did in the exercise of his office to prevent the rebels from capturing the National Capital.

Such is the record of the leaders of a party that would have the people believe that it is in favor of a vigorous prosecution of the war. They have one and all done all in their power to embarrass the Government by opposing or voting against every necessary measure to crush the rebellion and punish traitors.

The people of Oregon, by a large majority, have repudiated Shiel and his heresies, and we doubt not that the fall elections in the States will announce the political decease of all the rest of the signers of the Democratic Address.

"SKEDADDLE."—Prentice, of the Louisville Journal, devotes more than a column in a late number of that famed journal to the derivation and explanation of the word "Skedaddle," which seems to have recently taken a permanent place in the English language. He says that its primitive is a pure Greek word of great antiquity, and claims for it a legitimate origin; therefore, we may expect to hear it as familiarly used "shenanagin," "skull duggery," "Bifalutin," "scallos," &c. The proper meaning of "skedaddle" as given is splitting, shivering, or promiscuous scattering, but more frequently applied to a backward, irregular movement, which implies running and hiding—a feat very common among the "Southern chivalry."

ELECTED.—We learn from private letter that Hon. O. B. McFadden, late Chief Justice of Washington Territory, was elected a member of the Council of said Territory from the district comprising Thurston, Lewis, and Chehalis counties. It is also supposed that most of the Union ticket was elected in Thurston and Lewis counties, though nothing positive has yet been heard from there.

Eastern Items.

General Dix, on taking charge of the District of Norfolk, has promptly removed all restrictions on trade, throwing the port open, and only requiring that goods shall be sold at usual market rates. This will be gratifying news to the loyal citizens of Norfolk, who have received no advantage from the restoration of the authority of the Government up to the present time. He has also removed the restriction on free correspondence.

It is understood that one of the charges against Ben. Wood, for communicating information to the enemy, consists in causing to be transmitted to the disloyal States copies of the speech which he asked leave of the House to have printed a few weeks since. These were sent it is alleged, to Southern subscribers of the old New York News. It is not pretended that the speech gave the enemy any information, but much aid and comfort.

The Canard steamer Africa, on her late passage to this country, ran against an iceberg, as the officers say, and against the ground as some of her passengers think, and knocked off about seventeen feet of the lower part of her rudder, leaving barely sufficient to steer the vessel with, and get into Halifax.

Clark Mills' bronze statue of Freedom, for the Capitol dome, at Washington, has been set up in the grounds east of the Capitol. It is nineteen feet high, and weighs 16,000 pounds.

The rebel commanders McIntosh and Huger have died of wounds received in the naval battle of the Mississippi.

During the bombardment of Port Royal, a shot from the enemy terribly shattered one of the legs of a seaman named Thompson, while he was at the helm. The brave man, taking his knife, severed the tendons of the limb, and throwing the member away, continued at his post until compelled by weakness to be carried below. As he was borne away, he cried out: "I set the compasses," as calmly as though he was not suffering from his terrible wound. Thompson is now rapidly convalescing at the Naval Hospital at Brooklyn.

One hundred and two Representatives and thirty-seven Senators have signed a paper presented by Wilson, of Iowa, asking the President to make arrangements for releasing by exchange all Union prisoners in rebel hands. Thus majorities in both Houses are against the Kentucky disposition of Buckner.

The U. S. Government has contracted for 5,000 tons of pig lead to be turned into Minie rifle bullets. It will make one hundred and fifty millions of balls.

There are, at the present time, eight full regiments of East Tennesseeans in the United States service, and about five thousand fugitives from that State, on account of their loyalty.

The utterly false pretense of the Dutch Consul at New Orleans, that the money taken from his custody by order of Major-General Butler ($800,000) was not the proceeds of the secesh robbery of the U. S. Mint, but Mexican dollars really belonging to Hope & Co., Amsterdam, has been fairly exposed by microscopic examination of the coin itself. That shows, underneath the impression of the Mexican die, perfect evidence that it was originally United States coin. It was re-stamped in New Orleans, in order to prevent detection in case it should fall again within reach of Uncle Sam's clutches. Unmistakable proof of this cunning trick of recoining is found in a "damn-ed spot" upon each dollar, that wouldn't "out," the O, the distinctive mark of the U. S. dollar coinage by the New Orleans mint, still remains visible with the microscope upon each of the aforesaid $800,000.

Surgeon Hayes, who left three or four hundred wounded soldiers from Port Republic all night in the cars, without food or mattresses, sleeping himself at Willard's, made his excuse June 16th, to Secretary Stanton. He did not deny facts, but said he could not find the Surgeon-General, Adjutant, &c. Stanton, after hearing all, quietly burst out, "You are dismissed from the service, sir; you're a disgrace to the army; leave the room, sir!" which he did in a bee line, the throng in attendance manifesting a desire to expedite his retreat. It should be added that there was some fault found among the officials there also.

By Overland Telegraph.

LATER FROM THE EAST.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Specials to the New York papers say: The treaty with Mexico, sent home by Minister Corwin, providing for a loan of $11,000,000 to Mexico, was laid on the table, in Executive session, to-day.

In the Senate, the report of the Conference Committee on the Confiscation Bill was concurred in—McDougall and Stark voting no, Latham and Nesmith were absent.

The Senate adopted McDougall's resolution relative to the statement of the trade of Nevada, California, Oregon and Washington Territory.

The House passed a bill punishing by fine and imprisonment persons who erase with chemicals the marks of postage stamps and use them again; there being no law touching such cases.

A resolution passed the Senate, nineteen to ten, to adjourn on Wednesday, the 16th.

NASHVILLE, July 12.—Nine rebels were killed in the fight at Tompkinsville on the 10th.

BOSTON, July 12.—Faneuil Hall was crowded at short notice to-day to take measures to facilitate voluntary [illegible] under the call for more troops. Speeches were made by Edward Everett and [illegible] Cullemon.

NEW YORK, July 12.—The shipment of specie to-day amounted to $2[illegible]7,000.

New Orleans [illegible] says: "Governor Moore of Louisiana has issued a proclamation urging the destruction of steamers, rather than allow them to fall into our hands, and eulogizes Mumford, who was executed by Butler for hauling down the American flag, as a martyr. He says Southern independence is certain. He had removed the Capital to Opelousas.

"Our pickets extend to Marietta, on the Amantie river. The health of the troops was fair. But [illegible] yellow fever [illegible] occurred!"

LOUISVILLE, July 12.—Passengers by the Nashville train report that Morgan's cavalry, fifteen hundred strong, have been within seven miles of Cave City, and left there for Lexington, announcing their intention to visit Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, July 13.—A rumor reached here that Morgan's guerrillas, thirty-eight hundred strong, were at Harrisonburg and Danville, Kentucky, destroying property and stealing horses. Considerable excitement exists in this city in consequence of the proximity of these guerrillas.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—Sugar of all kinds is in demand. The duties on wines, brandies and corks have been advanced 25 cents. Bisquit brandy is selling to-day at $4 70 per gallon; whisky, 32 cents; drills, 15 cents; crushed sugar, 12 a 12½ cents; pepper, 21 cents; and pay duties on all brandies and wines in bond or to arrive before August.

THE LOYALTY OF MARYLAND.—Secession is very dead in Maryland. The affair at Front Royal drove the nail in the monster's coffin. The latest manifestation of the desire of the people to fulfill all the requirements of loyalty is found in the prompt tender of Maryland's quota of the war tax. Pennsylvania was the first, and Maryland has the credit of ranking second in this solid demonstration in favor of the suppression of rebellion.

While Gen. Jackson was receiving a serenade at Taylor's Hotel, in Winchester, 400 of the Marylanders, captured at Front Royal, broke in upon the rebel national airs with the Star Spangled Banner, sung in full voice.

An American horse, "Olive Branch," owned by Mr. Ten Broeck, has just won the annual race on the Bath Course, beating five favorite English horses. The betting was decidedly against the American horse, but she beat her competitors by a long distance.

A refugee from Arkansas reports from Cairo that steps are taking to call a convention in Arkansas with a view of making arrangements to give in their allegiance to the Union.

Lord Lyons is about to visit England for a two month's tarry. It is believed that this visit, though unofficial, will be productive of benefit to our interests abroad.

Santa Anna is once more on the track for Mexico. He has suddenly left his retirement at St. Thomas, as if to take an active part in the Mexican imbroglio.

☞ The attention of the community is respectfully solicited to the New Goods arrived by the last steamer—embracing a full line of Ladies' Silk Mantillas, French Bonnets, Shawls, new style Hats, Chalie, Poplins, and Debéges, together with a full assortment of Gents New Style [illegible] Cassimere Suits, Fancy Sacks, Broadway styles of Business Suits, and the very latest fashion of Parisian and New York Fancy Summer Panama Braid and light Cassimer Hats. Supreme Court.—Seventh Day.—The Court announced the following Decisions:

Keith vs. Quinney, (Boise J.)—Motion to open and correct judgment—denied.—Held—That there is no error upon the record, and that this Court cannot go back and change the record of judgement in the Court below.

Hopwood vs. Patterson, (Boise J.)—A plea in abatement must specify the pendency of the former suit at the time of making the plea. The plea in abatement must be pleaded previous to the answer upon the merits, and cannot be pleaded in the same answer. Judgment affirmed without damages.

Hamlin et. al. vs. Kenney et. al., (Boise J.)—In our Code, the Supplemental answer takes the place of the plea puis darein continuance. All the questions in the Supplemental arise upon the motion to file it; and when filed it is in place of former pleas, inconsistent with it. Sureties upon administration bonds cannot be sued until default had in the Probate Court against the principal. Judgment reversed.

Burns vs. Smith, (Page J.)—The lien of of the judgment of Burns does not attach to the latent equitable interest of D. C. Ingles in the premises of which B. R. and W. S. Ingles hold the legal title. That the lien of B. F. Smith by mortgage upon the premises, executed by D. C. Ingals, although the mortgage was fraudulently executed in part, is good; and the mortgage should be amended and judgment affirmed.

Brown vs. Brown, (Page J.)—Judgment affirmed. Attaching creditors do not stand in the same position as subsequent purchasers. Unrecorded mortgages are preferred to attaching; or judgment creditors.

Starr vs. Unger Wolf & Co., (Prim J.)—That the sheriff is an officer who must act honestly and upon his own discretion,—and should not be held liable, when so acting, for fluctuations in market prices. Judgment reversed and remanded for re-hearing.

Wright vs. Lord & Co., (Prim J.)—That the verdict of the jury, upon which the chancellor founded his decree in part, was insufficient to support the decree against Wright. That Wright and Mrs Whitmore, not being included in the verdict, could not be held by the decree thus far. Decree is reversed and case remanded for re-hearing and completion of pleadings.

Arguments made in two cases of habeas corpus.

Street Mains.—The laying of water pipes in middle of Front street has progressed quite rapidly, having now reached Salmon street. We notice that the planking along the upper portion needs considerable repairing, as the removal of dirt, etc., from between the boards discloses the fact that many of them are nearly if not entirely rotten and worn out. The relaying leaves large holes and very uneven surface.

Laid Up.—The steamer Cowlitz is at present laid up repairing boiler, which, upon trial last Saturday evening proved unsound. She will be probably detained several days in repairing; hence, unless arrangement can be made to procure another steamer in the interium, no mail will be carried between this city and Monticello.

Housed.—C. A. B. Patterson, the crazy individual brought to this city last Sunday evening, has been, by order of Judge Marquam, placed in charge of Doctors Hawthorne & Loryea, at their Insane [illegible] East Portland. We regard this as a very prompt and proper action, as the unfortunate man will be suitably provided for and medical aid rendered in due time.

Runaway.—Another runaway occurred yesterday forenoon, by a horse attached to a baggage wagon. The animal started from a confectionery shop on First street, and ran down Washington and Front until near the Pony Sample Rooms, when the wagon came in contact with sundry posts and edge of sidewalk, instantly upsetting and throwing horse off his feet, falling with considerable force and prolonged groans. No damage done further than smashing sides of box of the wagon, and slightly bruising the horse.

Nothing.—The Julia brought down about seventy or eighty passengers, but nothing later from the mines that we could learn, and but little dust in the hands of passengers. None by Express.

Departs.—Mr. A. Bushwiler takes his departure on the Sierra Nevada, this morning, on a temporary visit to the Bay City. We hope he may have a safe and pleasant voyage, and soon return much benefitted by the trip.

Sails.—The Sierra Nevada sails this morning at 9 o'clock precisely.

An Artilleryman's Description of the Fair Oaks Battle

One of the most interesting accounts we have seen of the desperate fight at Fair Oaks, near Richmond, is given in a private letter from an artilleryman attached to what is known as the Napoleon Battery, in Casey's division, and which was in the front line on the first day's battle before Richmond.— After describing the opening of the fight he says:

The pickets soon began to [illegible] rapidly and came running in, while the infantry [illegible] behind a fence to support them. They [illegible] away into the woods [illegible] on our right opened fire and [illegible] with the sharp roll of the musketry. Seven of our Napoleon guns [illegible] posted in an unfinished redoubt and three in the [illegible] a rifle pit opened with case shot which went whizzing through the air over the heads of our own men right into the midst of the enemy, and there exploded scattering death through their ranks. On the left, the rebels were seen coming through the woods to flank us, and wheeling three of our guns so as to bear upon them, we poured case shot among them with unexampled rapidity and terrible effect.

The destruction was horrible. Our spherical case shot are awful missiles, each of them consisting of a [illegible] mass of seventy six musket balls, with a charge of powder in the center that is fired by a fuse the same as a shell. The missile first acts as a solid shot plowing its way through masses of men, and then exploding, hurls forward a shower of musket balls that mow down the foe in heaps. Our battery threw 24 of these a minute and as we had the exact range of every part of the field, every shot told with frightful effect. But the enemy were not at all daunted. They marched steadily on and hurled a perfect tempest of balls upon us. Why we as well as our horses, were not every one shot down will forever remain a mystery to me. We did not mind the leaden hail, however, but kept pouring our case shot into the dense masses of the foe, who came in prodigious and overwhelming force. And they fought splendidly, too. Our shot tore their ranks wide open, and shattered them asunder in a manner that was frightful to witness, but they closed up again at once, and came on as steadily as English veterans.

When they got within four hundred yards we closed our case shot and opened on them with canister, and such destruction I never elsewhere witnessed. At each discharge great gaps were made in their ranks—indeed, whole companies went down before that murderous fire; but they closed up with an order and discipline that was awe inspiring. They seemed to be animated with the courage of despair blended with the hope of a speedy victory if they could by an overwhelming rush drive us from our position.

It was awful to see their ranks torn and scattered by every discharge of canister that we poured into their faces, and while their dead and dying lay in piles, they closed up and still kept advancing right in the face of that fire. At one time three lines, one behind another, were steadily advancing and three of their flags were brought in range of our guns shotted with canister.

"Fire!" shouted the gunner, and down went those three flags, and a gap was opened through those three lines as if a thunderbolt had torn through them, and the dead lay in swaths. But they at once closed up and came steadily on, never halting or wavering, right through the woods over the fence, through the field, right up to our guns and sweeping everything before them, captured every piece.

When we delivered our last fire they were within fifteen paces of us, and as all our horses had been killed or wounded, we could not carry off a gun. Our whole division was cut to pieces, with what loss I do not know. We fell back to a second line of intrenchments, and there held the enemy in check till reinforcements arrived, and then we kept our position till night put an end to the battle.

Among the Spirits.—The company then drew round the table and the circle kommenst to go it. They axed me if there was anybody in the sperrit land I would like to convarse with. I sed if Bill Tompkins,* was sober, I should like to convarse with him a few periods.

"Is the sperret of William Tompkins present?" sed I to one of the long haired chaps and there was three knocks on the table.

Sez I, "William how goes it, old sweetness?"

"Pretty ruff, old hoss," he replied.

That was a pleasant way we had of addressing each other when he was in the flesh.

"Air you in the show business, William?" sed I.

He sed he was. He sed he and John Bunyan was travelin with a side show in connection with Shakspeare, Johnson & Co's circus. He has old Bun (meaning Mr Bunyan) stirring up the animals & grindin the organ while he tended door. Occasionally Mr Bunyan sung a comic song. The circus was doin pretty well. Bill Shakspeare had made a great hit with old Bob Ridley, and Ben Johnson was delitin the peple with his truly grate ax of horsemanship without saddul and bridel.— They are rehearsin Dixie's Land and expeck it will knock the peple.—Artemus Ward Showman.

Strange Metamorphosis.—A genuine case of a living creature becoming converted into a vegetable is thus recorded:

It occures in a caterpillar that lives in New Zealand and Australia. There are several specimens at the College of Surgeons. We saw a caterpillar as hard as if it was carved out of wood; and from it is growing a long stem. The history of it is as follows: The caterpillar eats a fungus, or the sporules of a fungus, and these immediately begin to grow in its inside. The beast [illegible] and, possibly thinking it is going to turn into a chrysalis, burrows [illegible] and then dies. The fungus goes on growing and absorbing the entire contents of the [illegible] taking the exact form of the [illegible]. Having done this it throws out a shoot and this always at a certain fixed spot, namely at the point at the back of the head. My friend Mr. Quekett, has explained [illegible] the caterpillar is found [illegible] it is used as food.

Mr. Scott Russell writes to the London Times, claiming for his iron target the merit of having resisted the shot fired from the great Armstrong gun, weighing twelve tons, and that therefore the target is practically shot proof.

General Butler and the Women.—The order of General Butler in relation to the women who insult our soldiers in New Orleans, has been sharply criticised. A gentleman just returned from that city, where he has resided ever since the war broke out, says we can have no conception of the indignities our brave fellows were compelled to suffer at the hands of these fiends in petticoats. All sense of shame and decency appears to have departed out of them. They rival the most degraded street-walkers, not only in ribaldry but in obscenity. Women who have been regarded as the pattern of refinement and good breeding indulge in language towards our officers and men which no decent journal would dare put into print. Presuming upon the privileges of the sex, they not only assail them with the tongue but with more material weapons. Buckets of slops are emptied upon them as they pass, decayed oranges and rotten eggs are hurled at them, and every insult a depraved fancy can invent is offered to the hated Federals. The forbearance of our troops this gentleman says is truly wonderful. They endure the jibes and jeers of these unsexed wretches with a phlegm which nothing can overthrow. But the nuisance was fast becoming intolerable. The offenders were presuming upon the chivalry of the troops to commit physical assaults. Something like the order of General Butler became imperative. If women, pretending to be decent, imitate the conduct of women of the town, it was proper that something like the same punishment should be meted out to them.—Albany Evening Journal.

General Stonewall Jackson.—This rebel General, who is reported killed in the late battle before Richmond, was educated at West Point, and was afterwards a professor for fifteen years at the Virginia military school at Lexington. He was a cousin of the Jackson once Lieutenant-Governor of Virginia. The family settled early in that region and furnished its representatives in Congress for about thirty years, commencing under General Washington. It has become a numerous family in the valley, and its members are about equally divided in the present struggle.

The Nation's Capitol.—The dimensions of the Capitol at Washington, are thus officially stated: Whole length of building, [illegible] feet four inches, length of wings including steps, 324 feet; width of wings, 142 feet eight inches; hight of dome above basement floor, 2[illegible] feet; ground actually covered, 1[illegible] 112 square feet, or more than three and one half acres.

About two years ago, I suddenly, and from causes unknown [illegible] was seized with a fit of epilepsy, which owing to my inability to meet the expenses consequent upon a thorough medical treatment, and the discouragement which I met with on attempting it, soon became such, I was then led to believe, as to defy the skill of any physician.
